Disclaimer: Options trading involves risk and is not suitable for all investors. Options are a leveraged investment and losses could be greater than the initial trade amount or portfolio. Although there is significant profit potential associated with buying / selling options, there is also the risk of losing the amount invested in any individual trade – some Options strategies may incur losses greater than initial trade amount. In any options trading strategy, it is expected that losing trades will be more numerous than profitable trades. The trading strategy is for the average gain to be significantly greater than the average loss so that the bottom line is profitable. Past performance is no guarantee or is not a reliable indication of future results. Please note Mastering Wealth Market Report are NOT a Managed Investment, as a subscriber you are responsible choosing to apply trade alerts to your brokerage account, also configuring and applying auto-trade to your own broker account.
